Job Summary

The Education Program Manager provides logistical, operational, and administrative support to all STRAC Education initiatives, to include the Advanced Trauma Life Support Course, the Advanced Trauma Course for Nurses, the Regional Stop the Bleed Program, Rural Trauma Team Development Course and the Annual STRAC Conference. This position takes the lead on planning course and conference events and coordinating implementation and delivery of these complex educational experiences and leads regional injury prevention initiatives. This position is responsible for necessary processes to recruit, build and maintain a strong cadre of instructors for all courses. Additionally, the Education Program Manager maintains all supply and equipment caches necessary to conduct each course and ensures readiness of this equipment to maintain the highest standard of education for all participants.

The Education Program Manager is responsible for maintenance of STRAC's continuing education program, to include compliance with Department of State Health Services (DSHS) Emergency Medical Services Continuing Education program and the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC) nursing continuing professional development program guidelines. This position is responsible to maintain records of all continuing education credits awarded through these programs and ensure successful completion of any audit by DSHS or ANCC.

The Education Program Manager attends and assists the chair when necessary, the STRAC Education Committee meetings. Additionally, this position works closely with member organizations and representatives to ensure regional training and education needs are being met with STRAC offerings and Conference programs meet the needs of the Trauma and Emergency Healthcare community in our region.

The Education Program Manager provides leadership in the Regional Training and Education Program by building strong relationships with members and partner agencies. This position functions with a high level of autonomy and independence to develop and manage projects augmenting and solidifying STRAC's role in regional and statewide education. This position works closely with the Acute Care Division Director, Executive Director and the STRAC Board of Directors to accomplish this important function of STRAC. Leadership and innovation are key to the success of this position and the program as a whole.

This position is grant funded and subject to continued funding. STRAC has the intention to continue the program, but this position may be eliminated in the absence of funding.
